THE WHITE LION
WALKERN

WELCOME

Formerly a coaching inn built in the 16th century, the White Lion's origins trace back to the 1780's when the name was changed from the "Rose and Crown" to its current form today.

The reason for the name change is not known.

Some of the original architecture and fittings since the Lion's inception have remained, most notably the oak doorway built in the 18th century.

Representing a clear example of the increase in average height, you may need to mind your head with the ceiling in front of the bar being only 5'8" (our lowest doorway upstairs is just 5"..... and yes, its been known to hurt..... a lot!).
